Phiroz Dalal

Phiroz Dalal's music training began at a young age when he studied piano to grade 8 with Eileen Rowe in Ealing, and when he began singing with his school and St Matthew's Choir.

He studied Choral Education at the University of Roehampton under Dr Therees Tchack Hibbard, Professor Colin Durrant and Bob Chilcott, gaining an MA in 2008. He sings with the BBC Symphony Chorus, regularly appearing in the Proms and touring with them.

As a project manager and chartered engineer he was part of the London 2012 management team; he now works for Arup on what will probably be Heathrow Terminal 1's final project.

Phiroz's bike ride

On Saturday 29 August, Phiroz and Richard Thomas are raising money for Maggie's and Asthma UK. Maggie's Centres offer practical, emotional and social support to people living with cancer and Asthma UK provides research, advice and support for those with asthma.

We will be cycling 70 miles from the Churchill Hospital in Oxford to Charing Cross Hospital in London, two of Maggie's centres. Cancer and asthma are two diseases that affect both of our families, and we would like to show our support for two groups that have supported us.

We will take in some breathtaking scenery, and will have about 1000 feet of climbing to cross the Chilterns. This is equivalent to carrying 20kg to the 20th floor. Five times.

Please visit <http://uk.virginmoneygiving.com/team/2BoB>, and remember to gift aid your donations to help these causes even more.

COMING UP...

We have a wide-ranging repertoire and give three or four concerts a year.

Rehearsals for our next concert on Sunday 6th December start on Thursday 3rd September at 7.30pm in St Matthew's Church.
